

Recipients of 2021 Undergraduate Bursaries.

Alana Colton is studying dietetics and has a GPA of 6.68. Her honours project concerns the functional ability of patients with blood cancers, and how this study will provide further knowledge about an understudied population, and lead to more targeted nutrition and exercise interventions. Her academic referee stated that she had shown resilience and independence in pursuing her honours studies throughout 2020, when her project needed adapting due to COVID-19.

Heidi Osbourne is studying Civil Engineering. She is highly regarded by her lecturers and currently has a GPA of 6.5. Her plan for a thesis is linked with Engineers Without Borders and aims to improve options for women in developing countries, towards menstrual hygiene, which will contribute significantly to their quality of life. In her interview, she spoke of her desire to work in humanitarian engineering and plans to complete her competencies after graduation to ensure she gains registration in her profession, so that she can work overseas. Heidi has been working with an engineering company and her work reference was outstanding

Jaclyn Tahu is a nursing student with a GPA of 6.67. She had many different jobs before selling up and moving to the country to achieve her dream through nursing. She is highly motivated in her pursuit of excellence, and in setting an example for her three children. Her academic referee noted her respectful and caring attitude towards patients during her placements. Jaclyn has overcome many obstacles in her journey but retains a passion to be an excellent nurse and to show empathy to all those with whom she works.
