

Recipients of 2022 Undergraduate Bursaries.

Jahna Cafe is in her fourth year of a Bachelor of Law (Honours) degree and has a GPA of 6.5. Since commencing her degree she has worked in various law firms on the Sunshine Coast in legal support roles, specialising in the areas of property law and wills and estate law. Jahna recently applied, and was accepted, for the highly, sought after position as a Judge's associate for the Hon. Justice Paul Freeburn of the Supreme Court of Queensland. Jahna's Honours thesis explores legal barriers to those displaced by climate change. Her career goals are to be admitted to the Supreme Court as a Solicitor and eventually to become a barrister. She is passionate about the law and how it can drive social change.

Rebekah Belte-Dewet is currently completing her Honours year in a Bachelor of Psychology and wants to continue her studies to obtain her Master of Clinical Psychology. She has a GPA of 7.0. Whilst studying for her degree, Rebekah has worked for 1.5 years in a paid position as a psychosocial trauma coach at Real Life Skills Support Services. Rebekah's goal is to work with postnatal women and adolescents. To facilitate these goals, Rebekah has volunteered at a local psychology clinic that specialises in providing support to women struggling with postnatal depression. She is also collecting data to conduct her research into the relationship between meta-cognition, executive functioning, and adolescents' mental health. Rebekah has immersed herself in numerous university activities. She is the President of the Psychology Club at USC

Belinda Christensen is in her fourth year of a double degree of a Bachelor of Nutrition and Bachelor of Biomedical Science with a GPA of 6.81. She is very involved in many facets of the University, including being Co-chairperson of the USC School of Health and Behavioural Sciences Student Representative Group. She is also on the executive committee of the Dietetic and Nutrition Student Society. Belinda plans to do Honours next year and commence a PHD in 2024. She will centre her PHD thesis around a food systems approach to improve food security and reduce waste. Her current research project includes the impact of COVID on food systems and on school food environments in the Pacific Islands Region. Belinda sees her future career in academia as a researcher
